Please Stay Away, Dear Moon

The moon shines brightly in the shadowy night sky
A pretty harbinger of death and destruction
I couldn't stay away from it Just like I couldn't stay away from you Does all that the moon shines on reflect their soul back to that cratered orb?
Do you see the weeping rivers that flow down my tattered face?
I can't hide from the night
Just like I can't hide my feelings for you I hid you where no one can find you Where I can't find you
So no one can hurt you
It hurts every second to be away from you My body aches violently, every pore bursting with primal hunger
I hungered for the taste of your skin
I need to feel your heavenly skin Savor the taste of your flesh in my mouth I see you now, your eyes shining with tears
"Please, no-" you cry
I reach out to comfort you
You looked so sad
Just before I lunge and devour you.

Where Happiness Resides

Matthew Alvarez

My happiness does not depend on you Rather, it is found in the kindnesses that I do

From the first hello, to the last goodnight

I share a deep love for all those in sight

My happiness is encapsulated in the snapshots of life

Simple sweet moments that help heal internal strife

From the first minute, to the last moment

All things bound together in memory

The most dearest component patricia brewer,

hold your breath

hold your breath
we're going through the tunnel again the windows are down and the wind is blowing right through me, don't scream.

my mom reminds me,

it makes my head hurt.

it's time to hold my breath now,

but i know i can hold it through every tunnel.

the car lights are flashing as the honking gets *louder
and

it's dark.

and this is the most i've ever felt alive, this is the most i've ever felt safe, in this amount of danger.

*and i know i can hold it
through every tunnel.*

the quick suction of air,
the quick wind that passes,

*but i know i can hold it,
i always hold it
i always hold that moment.*

i hold my breath again through another tunnel.

i can see the desperation in the frayed edges of your skin... outside of this, you are nothing, a crumpled curling concave outline of fear, something almost, the permanent understanding in the pit of your stomach, stagnant vibrations of mauve, rippling and bouncing off one another... you'll be alright now. you wonder how to be intimate in your retreat, when you breathe in the never-ending night, revel in the light, shared, through fingertip passageways, closeness, and burnt out touches... leaving behind all this weight, to grapple, unsteady in the novelty

TPZY (Instrumental)

“listen to these superb songs to feel like a cozy cat on a cool chair ”

Ted's latest release consists of 7 minutes and 39 seconds of pure
seasonal bliss.

Pumpkin Patch is light and lingers with you. It's hard not to smile as you sing along through the highs and lows of this absolutely remarkable song.

TPZY (Instrumental)
strikes deep, speaking without words, urging sadness, joy, purpose and nostalgia. The perfect driving- with- the-windows- down song for the end of this year.
